“Anne Evans is one of the most accomplished and least known of the many women who have contributed to making Colorado a special place. Her achievements in helping to develop the institutions devoted to the cultural enrichment of life in Denver and Colorado - art museums, public libraries, an art commission to further the ideal of a well-designed civic environment - are an extraordinary tale told well in this book. Barbara Sternberg resembles Anne Evans in that she achieves much because she lets others take or share credit, including this wonderful book Anne Evans- A Pioneer in Colorado's Cultural History: THE THINGS THAT LAST WHEN GOLD IS GONE.”

—Tom “Dr. Colorado” Noel PhD, University of Colorado, Denver

Barbara E. Sternberg taught at the University of Denver and Colorado Woman's College and has authored articles and books about urban planning and architecture with her late husband Eugene D. Sternberg. Their final book was about Evergreen, their adopted hometown. Barbara Sternberg's award winning biography about Anne Evans is a deeply satisfying excursion into the cultural history of Denver and of Colorado.
